

Invitation

The Auckland University of Technology Centre for Active Ageing, the New Zealand Association of Gerontology and the Auckland University of Technology School of Clinical Sciences warmly invite you to hear Dr Kasia Bail, Assistant Professor of Nursing at the University of Canberra speak on

‘Failure to maintain’: nurse care rationing and the clinical and financial burden of hospital acquired complications in complex older people.

Kasia's primary work interest is to improve sustainable acute health care delivery for an ageing population, and is particularly interested in identifying and researching the structures which impede or enable nursing care. Kasia's research aims to be translatable for policy and/or practice, utilises both qualitative and quantitative methods, and is consistently multidisciplinary.

Date: Friday 8th September 2017

Time: 2-3pm

Location: Room AE103, Auckland University of Technology North Campus, 90 Akoranga Drive, Northcote, Auckland 0627.

Parking: Parking is available for a small charge in carparks 2 and 7 (campus map attached). Please RSVP to Kay Shannon sshannon@aut.ac.nz
